

A COLLEGE STUDENT'S GUIDE TO SAFETY PLANNING

If you have questions about dating in general or a specific relationship, or if you are in an unhealthy or abusive relationship, you deserve support and resources to help you with your situation. You are not alone; our peer advocates are here for you 24/7.

Loveisrespect advocates are trained on issues related to dating abuse and healthy relationships, as well as crisis intervention. This means that when you contact a loveisrespect advocate, they will listen to your situation, assess how you're feeling in the moment, and help you figure out the next best steps for you. You might brainstorm a safety plan together, or the advocate may be able to find some local resources for you, whether it's a counselor, support group, legal service or whatever you might need.

MY SAFETY PLAN

These are things I can do to help keep myself safe everyday:

I will carry my cell phone and important telephone numbers with me at all times.

I will keep in touch with someone I trust about where I am or what I am doing.

I will stay out of isolated places and try to never walk around alone.

If possible, I will alert dorm or campus security about what is happening in my relationship so that my abuser is not allowed in my building.

I will avoid places where my abuser or his/her friends and family are likely to be. I will keep the doors and windows locked where I live, especially if I am alone.

I will avoid speaking to my abuser. If it is unavoidable, I will make sure there are people around in case the situation becomes dangerous.

I will call 911 if I feel my safety is at risk.

I can look into getting a protective order so that I'll have legal support in keeping my abuser away. I can see if there are any self-defense classes available at my college or university.

I will remember that the abuse is not my fault and that I deserve a safe and healthy relationship.

These are things I can do to help keep myself safe in my social life:

I will ask my friends to keep their cell phones with them while they are with me in case we get separated and I need help.

These are things I can do to stay safe online and with my cell phone:
